Notes on the book's questions (answers follow the book's intended option):
(1) Unit 1, Task 6, Unit 6, Task 5 (plus the Unit 6 translation examples) and Unit 10, Task 3 ask for Urdu translations, so those answers are given in Urdu script (Nastaliq); the rest of this PDF is English-only, as the language-subject rule requires.
(2) Writing tasks, essay tasks and dialogue tasks are open tasks with no single book answer; the answers given are MODEL answers, flagged as models in their headings.
(3) Unit 2, Task 2 (x): the lesson text does not print the phrase 'scientific outlook' verbatim; option (b) 'outlook' is the book's intended completion.
(4) Unit 2, Task 5: the book's table pairs each misspelling with its correction; the correct spellings are disease, achievement, kite, receive, weapon, indispensable.
(5) Unit 2, Task 7: 'bounties' is answered with its closest thesaurus synonym in context (gifts, rewards); 'incurable' with 'untreatable'.

Unit 1 — Hazrat Muhammad-ur-Rasool Ullah Khatam-un-Nabiyeen (S.A.W)

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) What was the condition of Arabs before spread of Islam?

Before Islam the Arabs had indulged in all sorts of evils. They did not worship Almighty Allah but gods and goddesses of various kinds. They gambled and drank wine, there was no respect for law, and nobody's life and property was safe.

(ii) What did people call Hazrat Muhammad-ur-Rasool Ullah Khatam-un-Nabiyeen (S.A.W) because of his honesty and truthfulness?

People called him 'Ameen' and 'Sadiq' because of his honesty and truthfulness.

(iii) Why did the people of Makkah become enemies of Hazrat Muhammad-ur-Rasool Ullah Khatam-un-Nabiyeen (S.A.W)?

They became his enemies because he asked them to worship one and the only Allah and to give up worshipping idols. They gave him a lot of trouble, but he did not give up preaching the message of Allah.

(iv) How did Hazrat Muhammad-ur-Rasool Ullah Khatam-un-Nabiyeen (S.A.W) face all the hardships?

He faced all the troubles with courage and determination and kept on preaching the message of Allah.

(v) What did Islam teach to the mankind?

Islam taught mankind to worship one Allah only, to fulfil their duties towards Allah and to serve their fellow men. It taught honest rules of trade, encouraged them to seek knowledge, and gave them a complete, practicable and successful way of life.

(vi) Why was the journey from Makkah to Madina very dangerous?

The journey was very long and dangerous because his enemies were looking for him everywhere and wanted to kill him.

(vii) What was the reaction of the Muslims of Madina to see Hazrat Muhammad-ur-Rasool Ullah Khatam-un-Nabiyeen (S.A.W)?

They were overjoyed to see him. Many people of Madina had already embraced Islam before he reached there, and Madina became the centre of Islam.

(viii) How were the Muslims of Makkah being treated by the Kaffirs?

The Muslims of Makkah were receiving painful treatment at the hands of the Kafirs of Makkah, which is why many of them followed him to Madina to escape it.

(ix) What changes took place in the lives of Arabs when they embraced Islam?

They saw a great difference between the old ways of life and the good ways of Islam. They started praying to Allah only, gave up gambling and drinking, and stopped fighting with each other. Islam gave them the lesson of brotherhood, and they became kind and helpful companions to each other.

(x) How does the Holy Quran guide us?

The Holy Quran is the complete message of Allah. It shows us the right path in every walk of life, and its light will always show the right path to the people.

Task 4. Critical thinking — What changes were brought in the lives of people of Makkah after the conquest of Makkah?

(i) What changes were brought in the lives of people of Makkah after the conquest of Makkah?

After the conquest of Makkah the idols placed in the Kaaba were destroyed, and the Muslims started offering their prayers in the 'Harem-e-Kaaba'. All the people of Arabia embraced Islam within a few years. Their lives were completely changed: they became law-abiding citizens, honest, kind and truthful people. Nobody stole anything even if it was left by the roadside, women got their due rights and respect, and the whole Muslim society became a model of justice and equality for the world.

Task 5. Read the following words and identify commonly occurring cognates in English and Urdu.

(i) Commonly occurring cognates (from: teacher, universe, poet, football, computer, doctor, shoes, book, earth, cricket) teacher, doctor, computer, cricket and football. These words are used in Urdu with almost the same pronunciation and meaning as in English, so they are cognates. The other words in the list (universe, poet, shoes, book, earth) have their own separate Urdu words and are not cognates in this sense.

Task 6. Translate the following passage into Urdu. (This one answer is in Urdu, as the book requires.)

(i) All the people of Arabia embraced Islam within a few years. Their lives were completely changed and they became law-abiding citizens. They were turned into honest, kind and truthful people. Nobody stole anything even if it was left by the roadside. Women got their due rights and respect. The whole Muslim society became a model of justice and equality for the world. The message of Islam led the Muslims to succeed in every field of life.

عرب کے تمام لوگ چند سالوں کے اندر اسلام لے آئے۔ ان کی زندگیاں مکمل طور پر بدل گئیں اور وہ قانون کی پابندی کرنے والے شہری بن گئے۔ وہ ایماندار، مہربان اور سچے لوگ بن گئے۔ کوئی شخص کوئی چیز چوری نہیں کرتا تھا، چاہے وہ سڑک کے کنارے پڑی ہو۔ عورتوں کو ان کے جائز حقوق اور عزت ملی۔ پوری مسلم معاشرہ دنیا کے لیے انصاف اور مساوات کا نمونہ بن گیا۔ اسلام کا پیغام مسلمانوں کو زندگی کے ہر شعبے میں کامیابی کی طرف لے گیا۔

Writing — Write a unified paragraph on 'Importance of simplicity in life'. (Model answer.)

(i) Write a unified paragraph on 'Importance of simplicity in life'.

Simplicity is one of the greatest qualities of a good life. A simple person lives within his means, avoids show and waste, and finds happiness in small things. Simplicity saves time, money and energy, because a simple life has fewer worries and fewer wants. It also brings peace of mind: a person who is content with what he has does not run after luxuries or compare himself with others. Simple living teaches honesty, patience and gratitude, and it earns the respect of others. In short, simplicity makes life peaceful, healthy and truly successful, and that is why it should be practised by everyone.

Modern means of communication have made the world a global village. We can talk with relatives and friends thousands of miles away with the help of telephone, cell phone and computer, and if anything important happens in any part of the world, the news can be conveyed within seconds with the help of radio, television or social media.

(iv) How is modern technology being used in the field of medical science?

Modern technology has helped mankind to fight against fatal diseases. Diseases once considered incurable can now be cured with different medicines, and even in the field of surgery the transplantation of heart, liver and kidney has become possible because of tremendous achievements in medical science.

(v) What is distance education?

Distance education is a system of learning in which students who are unable to attend scheduled classes at campus are offered flexible learning through online (internet) and print-based materials. It is inevitably linked to media and technology.

(vi) How has internet contributed in the field of distance education?

With the fast growth of the Internet, the World Wide Web has become a new medium for distance learning. With the enormous number of resources available online, web-based instruction is considered one of the fastest media for teaching and learning.

(vii) What is the role of computer conferencing in teaching learning process?

Computer conferencing allows students and instructors to interact via a computer network easily and effectively, through e-mail messages, file transfer, chat rooms and real audio and video exchange. It is taking the most important place in the teaching-learning process.

(viii) What are the negative aspects of modern technology?

The negative side of modern technology is the invention of the hydrogen bomb and the atom bomb, which have caused new fears among the people and brought destruction of life and property on a large scale.

(ix) When and where were atomic bombs dropped by America?

In August 1945, America dropped atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan, which resulted in killing thousands of people and destruction of property at large scale.

(x) How should we use modern discoveries and inventions?

We should use modern discoveries and inventions for the welfare and betterment of humanity, rather than using them for destruction, chaos and uncertainty.

Task 2. Re-read the lesson and complete the following sentences by choosing the correct option. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

Task 3. Critical thinking — What is your personal point of view about the modern inventions and their use in present day life? (Model answer.)

(i) What is your personal point of view about the modern inventions and their use in present day life?

In my point of view, modern inventions are a great blessing when they are used wisely. They have made travel, communication, education and medical treatment faster and easier, and they save our time and labour. But they also have a harmful side: misuse of mobile phones, the internet and machines wastes time, harms health and can even destroy life, as the atom bomb did. So, in my opinion, we should welcome modern inventions but use them with responsibility, only for the welfare and betterment of humanity.

Task 4. Read silently any paragraph from the text and extract main idea and supporting details. (Model answer.)

(i) Read silently any paragraph from the text and extract main idea and supporting details.

Paragraph chosen: 'Travelling has become very fast and comfortable.' Main idea: Modern technology has made travelling fast and comfortable. Supporting details: (1) We can travel by trains, motor cars, buses, motor bikes and aeroplanes. (2) Aeroplanes are the fastest means of transportation in the modern era. (3) These modern means of travelling have helped us in covering the distance of months in days, even in hours.

(ii) echievement / achievement

Correct spelling: achievement.

(iii) kaite / kite

Correct spelling: kite.

(iv) receve / receive

Correct spelling: receive.

(v) wapon / weapon

Correct spelling: weapon.

(vi) indispesible / indispensable

Correct spelling: indispensable.

Task 6. Write an essay on 'Uses and misuses of science and technology'. (Model answer.)

(i) Write an essay on 'Uses and misuses of science and technology'.

Science and technology have changed every walk of life. Their uses are countless: electricity, aeroplanes, railways and motor cars have made life comfortable; refrigerators, ovens and washing machines have eased domestic work; fast travel and instant communication have made the world a global village; and modern medicines and surgery have cured diseases once thought incurable. Distance education and computer conferencing have also opened new doors of learning. But science has its misuses too. The hydrogen bomb and the atom bomb, dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in August 1945, killed thousands and spread fear in the world. Machines are also misused for pollution, wastage of time and harmful habits. The modern age is therefore an age of comforts and destruction as well. It depends on us: we must use science and technology for the welfare and betterment of humanity, not for destruction, chaos and uncertainty.

Task 7. Use a thesaurus to locate the synonyms closest to the meaning of the given words in the context.

(i) bounties

Synonym: gifts, rewards (in context: the blessings and benefits science gives us).

(ii) indispensable

Synonym: essential, necessary.

(iii) abundance

Synonym: plenty, a large quantity.

(iv) incurable

Synonym: untreatable, hopeless (of a disease that cannot be cured).

(v) tremendous

Synonym: huge, enormous, great.

Task 8. Use the following adverbs in your sentences.

(i) honestly

He always speaks honestly with his friends.

(ii) early

She reached school early in the morning.

(iii) quite

The new mobile phone is quite expensive.

(iv) out

Please go out and play in the garden.

(v) yesterday

We visited our grandmother yesterday.

(vi) enough

I have enough money to buy this book.

(vii) sometimes

Sometimes I watch the news on television.

Task 9. Change number of the following nouns.

(i) stone

Plural: stones.

(ii) piano

Plural: pianos.

(iii) lady

Plural: ladies.

(iv) chief

Plural: chiefs.

(v) goose

Plural: geese.

(vi) deer

Plural: deer (unchanged).

(vii) grandparent

Plural: grandparents.

(viii) stitch

Plural: stitches.

Plural: photos.

(x) leaf

Plural: leaves.

(xi) man

Plural: men.

(xii) foot

Plural: feet.

(xiii) child

Plural: children.

(xiv) daughter-in-law

Plural: daughters-in-law.

Unit 3 — The Wealthy Man

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) Why did Naeem boast of his life to his friends and relatives?

Naeem boasted of his luxurious life to his friends and relatives because he had all the comforts, led a luxurious life, had every luxury at his doorstep, and could afford to feed all the people of his town. He wanted to show how rich he was.

(ii) Why had Faheem come to Naeem's home?

Faheem, one of Naeem's friends who had been living in another city, had come to spend his holidays with Naeem.

(iii) Why did Naeem take Faheem on visit to the town?

Naeem wanted to make Faheem realise that his lifestyle was extremely rich, and how the poor lived in miserable conditions. So he planned a day's visit to the slum area of the town to show Faheem the life of the poor people.

(iv) Where did the rich man take Faheem to?

The rich man took Faheem to the slum area of the town, in his expensive car from his bungalow.

(v) What was the condition of the slum area of the town?

The slum area was in a miserable condition: packs of stray dogs were wandering and barking here and there, trash heaps could be seen everywhere, and there was no proper system of electricity and sanitation. Children were playing in unhygienic conditions, and at some distance people were ploughing and cultivating in the fields.

(vi) Why did Faheem disagree with Naeem's views?

Faheem disagreed because, in his view, the poor people were actually richer than Naeem in the real things of life: they had more dogs, a massive bay without ends, countless stars, abundant fields, brotherhood and cooperation, and they cultivated their own food, while Naeem bought his food from them.

(vii) How did Faheem explain his views?

Faheem explained his views by comparison, point by point: 'You have only two dogs, they have 10 dogs. You have a big pool in your garden, but they have a massive bay without any ends. You have luxurious and expensive lights, but they have countless stars lighting their nights. You have a house in a small piece of land, but they have abundant fields that go beyond the sight. You are served by servants, but they serve people. You are protected by huge and strong walls, but they are tied with the feelings of brotherhood and cooperation.'

(viii) Why was Naeem stunned after hearing the answer of his friend?

Naeem was stunned because Faheem's comparisons turned his boast upside down: they showed that the poor people, whom Naeem had wanted to pity, were in fact richer than him, and that Naeem himself was poor because he depended on them even for his food.

(ix) What is the moral lesson of the story?

The moral lesson of the story is that real wealth is not money, luxury or property. True richness lies in contentment, brotherhood, cooperation, hard work and the blessings of nature. A person who boasts of his wealth is poor in spirit, while people who live simply and help one another are truly rich.

Task 2. Re-read the lesson and complete the following sentences by choosing the correct option. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

(i) The rich man had every luxury at his ___ and could afford to feed the entire people of his town.

- (a) doorstep ✓
- (b) footstep
- (c) gatestep
- (d) roomstep

(ii) He ___ for a day's visit to the slum area of the town to show him off the life of poor people.

- (a) arranged
- (b) thought
- (c) brought
- (d) planned ✓

(iii) Naeem was showing Faheem the ___ of facilities in that area.

- (a) plenty
- (b) lack ✓
- (c) excess
- (d) abundance

(iv) 'Do you see, how ___ I am?' said Naeem.

- (a) poor
- (b) great
- (c) tall
- (d) rich ✓

(v) Faheem added, 'You have only two ___, they have ten dogs.

- (a) horses
- (b) camels
- (c) dogs ✓

(d) goats

(vi) 'You have a big pool in your ___, but they have a massive bay without any ends.'

(a) garden ✓

(b) room

(c) area

(d) building

(vii) You have luxurious and ___ lights.

(a) inexpensive

(b) expensive ✓

(c) big

(d) imported

(viii) You are served by ___, but they serve people.

(a) doctors

(b) waiters

(c) servants ✓

(d) slaves

(ix) 'You are protected by huge and strong ___ your property, but they bond with each other with the feelings of brotherhood and cooperation.'

(a) walls ✓

(b) trees

(c) guards

(d) border

(x) The rich man was ___ to hear his friend's views and he was completely speechless.

(a) sad

(b) stunned ✓

(c) happy

(d) excited

Task 3. Critical thinking — Do you agree with views of the friend? If yes / no give reasons. (Model answer.)

(i) Do you agree with views of the friend? If yes / no give reasons.

Yes, I agree with Faheem's views. He was right because wealth is not measured only by money and luxury. The poor people in the story had things money cannot buy: open fields, countless stars, brotherhood and cooperation, and the dignity of growing their own food. Naeem, with all his luxuries, was dependent on others even for his food, and his walls cut him off from people. Faheem's comparisons prove that a simple, contented and cooperative life is richer than a luxurious but lonely life.

Task 4. Alphabetize the following book titles, words and names.

(i) Book titles

Alphabetical order: David Copperfield, Emma, Frankenstein, Gulliver's Travels, Romeo and Juliet.

(ii) Names

Alphabetical order: Hashim, Iqbal, Laiba, Noman, Saira.

(iii) Words

Alphabetical order: fabulous, fugitive, historic, obedience, scholar.

Task 5. Write an expository composition on 'Money is everything' showing comparison and contrast. (Model answer.)

(i) Write an expository composition on 'Money is everything' showing comparison and contrast.

Money is important in life, but it is not everything. On the one hand, money buys food, clothes, houses, education and medical treatment, and it gives comfort and security. In the same way, a person without money faces hardship in meeting even basic needs. On the other hand, money cannot buy health, true friendship, love, peace of mind or respect. However, a rich man may be lonely and worried, while a poor man may be happy and contented with his family and friends. Similarly, money can buy a house but not a home, and it can buy books but not wisdom. Nevertheless, money is a good servant but a bad master. In conclusion, money is necessary for life, but it is not everything; health, character, knowledge and good relations are equally, and often more, valuable.

Task 6. Use the above words in sentences to make their meanings clear in singular and plural form.

(i) arm / arms

Singular (part of body): He broke his arm in the accident. Plural (weapons): The soldiers laid down their arms after the war.

(ii) glass / glasses

Singular (a drinking container): She drank a glass of water. Plural (glasses for eyes): My grandfather wears glasses for reading.

(iii) good / goods

Singular (having qualities of high standard): He is a good student. Plural (merchandise or possession): The shopkeeper packed all his goods for the journey.

(iv) content / contents

Singular (in a state of peaceful happiness): She is content with her simple life. Plural (the things included in something): Please read the contents of this book before buying it.

(v) spectacle / spectacles

Singular (a visually striking performance): The fireworks were a grand spectacle. Plural (a pair of glasses): He bought new spectacles from the market.

Task 7. Write five nouns having different meanings in singular and plural forms.

(i) custom / customs

Singular: It is our custom to respect our elders. Plural: The customs officers checked the luggage at the airport.

(ii) manner / manners

Singular: He solved the problem in a strange manner. Plural: Good manners are the sign of a good student.

(iii) letter / letters

Singular: I wrote a letter to my friend. Plural: He is a man of letters (a learned man).

(iv) return / returns

Singular: He will return from Lahore tomorrow. Plural: The shopkeeper gave good returns on my investment.

(v) quarter / quarters

Singular: He gave me a quarter of the cake. Plural: The soldiers live in the army quarters.

Task 8. Analyse the following sentences and highlight the clauses and phrases.

(i) When the president arrives, we all will stand up.

'When the president arrives' is a (subordinate) clause; 'we all will stand up' is the main clause.

(ii) The book was on the table.

'The book was' is a clause; 'on the table' is a phrase.

(iii) Brush your teeth before you go to bed.

'Brush your teeth' is the main clause; 'before you go to bed' is a subordinate clause.

Punctuation — Recognize and rectify faulty punctuation in the following passage.

(i) In the days of prosperity and pleasure: we sleep and enjoy and know not what we are? But in adversity' the inner man wakes up and we come to know our real strength and weakness. History tells us that all great men are brave people who worked their way up through difficulties and obstacles? They stuck to their guns under all circumstances-never stopping low in their principles. Harder the circumstances: stiffer the opposition' better they shone and brought out their virtue to the forefront.

Corrected passage: In the days of prosperity and pleasure, we sleep and enjoy and know not what we are. But in adversity, the inner man wakes up and we come to know our real strength and weakness. History tells us that all great men are brave people who worked their way up through difficulties and obstacles. They stuck to their guns under all circumstances, never stopping low in their principles. Harder the circumstances, stiffer the opposition, better they shone and brought out their virtue to the forefront.

Task 11. Work in pairs. One student should ask or say something while other should refuse politely. (Model answer.)

(i) Work in pairs. One student should ask or say something while other should refuse politely.

Ali: Will you lend me your book for a day? Ahmed: I appreciate your offer to wait, but I need the book myself today; I am sorry, I cannot lend it right now. Ali: May I sit with you in the class? Ahmed: No thanks, I am sorry, but I have already promised this seat to my friend. Ali: Books are a thing of the past. Ahmed: I beg to differ; a lot of people still prefer to have a book in their hands rather than read on a screen.

Unit 4 — The Daffodils (Poem) — by William Wordsworth

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) What are daffodils?

Daffodils are golden yellow flowers. In the poem the poet sees a host of golden daffodils growing beside the lake, beneath the trees, fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

(ii) Where did the poet see the daffodils?

The poet saw the daffodils beside the lake, beneath the trees, stretched in a never-ending line along the margin of a bay.

(iii) To whom is the poet comparing himself in the first stanza?

In the first stanza the poet compares himself to a cloud that floats on high over vales and hills, wandering lonely.

(iv) Why has the poet called the daffodils 'golden'?

The poet has called the daffodils 'golden' because of their bright golden-yellow colour, shining like gold in the sunlight beside the lake.

(v) In the second stanza, what is common between the stars and the daffodils?

Both are countless and continuous: the daffodils are continuous as the stars that shine and twinkle on the Milky Way, stretching in a never-ending line. The poet saw ten thousand at a glance.

(vi) How are daffodils described in the poem?

The daffodils are described as a host of golden flowers beside the lake, beneath the trees, fluttering and dancing in the breeze, tossing their heads in sprightly dance, and outdoing the sparkling waves in glee.

(vii) What does the word 'wealth' represent in third stanza?

In the third stanza 'wealth' represents the great joy and happiness which the sight of the daffodils brought to the poet — a treasure of pleasure that he did not realise at the time.

(viii) When the poet was watching the daffodils did he know that they would always give him happiness?

No. He gazed and gazed, but little thought what wealth the show to him had brought. He realised its value only later, when the memory of the daffodils filled his heart with pleasure.

(ix) How have daffodils inspired the poet?

The daffodils inspired the poet with joy: a poet could not but be gay in such a jocund company, and their memory dances in his heart whenever he recalls them.

(x) How do daffodils help the poet in getting rid of pensive mood?

When the poet lies on his couch in a vacant or pensive mood, the daffodils flash upon his inward eye, which is the bliss of solitude. Then his heart with pleasure fills, and dances with the daffodils, so his pensive mood is removed.

Task 2. Choose the correct answer. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

(i) First stanza (paraphrase)

The poet was walking alone, like a lonely cloud floating high over valleys and hills, when suddenly he saw a large group of golden daffodils beside the lake, under the trees, fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

(ii) Last stanza (paraphrase)

Often, when the poet lies on his couch in an empty or thoughtful, sad mood, the daffodils flash before his mind's eye, which is the joy of being alone with such a memory. Then his heart fills with pleasure and dances with the daffodils.

Task 13. Write summary of the poem.

(i) Summary of the poem 'The Daffodils'

One day the poet William Wordsworth was wandering lonely like a cloud over vales and hills when he suddenly saw a host of golden daffodils beside a lake, beneath the trees, dancing in the breeze. They stretched in a never-ending line like the stars on the Milky Way; he saw ten thousand at a glance, tossing their heads in sprightly dance, and even the sparkling waves could not match their joy. A poet could not but be happy in such cheerful company, though at the time he little thought what wealth of joy the sight had brought him. Later, whenever he lies on his couch in a vacant or pensive mood, the daffodils flash upon his inward eye and fill his heart with pleasure, and his heart dances with the daffodils.

Revision (Units 1-4)

Revision 1. Answer the following questions.

Revision 15. Critical thinking — Why is the use of science and technology important in the field of education? (Model answer.)

(i) Why is the use of science and technology important in the field of education?

Science and technology are important in education because they have opened new and faster ways of learning. Through distance education, online resources and computer conferencing, students who cannot attend regular classes can still learn, and teachers and students can interact through e-mail, chat rooms and audio-video exchange. The World Wide Web gives access to an enormous number of learning resources, so web-based instruction is one of the fastest media for teaching and learning. In short, technology makes education flexible, wider-reaching and more effective.

Revision 16. Write an essay on the use of modern technology in the classroom teaching. (Model answer.)

(i) Write an essay on the use of modern technology in the classroom teaching.

Modern technology has changed classroom teaching completely. In the past, teaching depended only on the teacher, the blackboard and the textbook. Today, computers, projectors, the internet and audio-video aids make lessons lively and clear: a teacher can show pictures, films and experiments that were once impossible in class. Students can search for information within seconds, watch educational videos, and take part in online quizzes and discussions. Computer conferencing even allows students and teachers to interact from different places. Technology also helps slow learners, because they can revise a lesson again and again at their own speed. However, technology is only an aid; it cannot replace a good teacher, and its misuse — wasting time on games or social media — harms learning. Used wisely, modern technology makes classroom teaching interesting, effective and enjoyable for every student.

Unit 5 — Road Safety

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) Why should we be very careful when crossing a road?

We should be very careful when crossing a road because the roads are very busy nowadays, and every day many people face road accidents; some are killed and some are injured or maimed. No sensible or careful person would like to be involved in an accident.

(ii) What should a pedestrian use while crossing a road?

While crossing a road, a pedestrian should use a pedestrian crossing or an overhead bridge whenever one is available.

(iii) How should we cross a road?

We should never cross a road by dashing across it, as that is inviting trouble. If there are no crossings, we must look carefully at right and left and cross only when it is safe.

(iv) What things should we avoid while sitting in a bus?

While sitting in a bus we should avoid trying to get on or off while it is still moving, and we must not fool around while in the bus, because a sudden lurch can send us knocking our heads against something hard.

(v) Why have traffic rules been designed?

Traffic rules have been designed with safety foremost in mind. They take into account safety for all, including pedestrians, and they require preference to be given to pedestrians and children in crossing the road.

(vi) Why should we fasten seat belts while driving vehicles?

We should fasten seat belts because a seat belt is designed to secure the persons sitting in a vehicle against harmful movement that may result during a collision or a sudden stop. A seat belt reduces the risk of death or serious injury in a traffic accident.

(vii) What is the importance of brakes in a vehicle?

Brakes are of the greatest importance in a vehicle because there should be no compromise on the quality of brakes and tyres; good brakes allow the driver to stop the vehicle in time and avoid an accident.

(viii) How should we drive while approaching schools, on narrow roads and hilly areas?

While approaching schools, on narrow roads, in hilly areas and rural areas, and when visibility is poor, it is especially important to lower the speed. Wet roads and over-speeding may cause an accident.

(ix) How can tyre-bursts be avoided?

Tyre-bursts can be avoided by using good quality tyres, inflating them with the right air pressure, and keeping lights and indicators in proper working condition.

(x) How can we avoid road accidents?

We can avoid road accidents by always driving carefully and taking all precautionary steps for our safety: following traffic rules, using crossings, avoiding over-speeding, fastening seat belts, keeping the vehicle in good condition, and staying alert at all times while using the roads. Road safety is very much up to how we use the roads.

Task 2. Choose the correct answer. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

(i) It is important for us to learn to ___ the roads properly and safely.

(a) repair
(b) dig
(c) use ✓
(d) widen

(b) aero-plane
(c) horse
(d) ship

(iii) We must know what is ___ around us.

(a) selling
(b) happening ✓
(c) buying
(d) throwing

(iv) It is especially important to lower speed while ___ schools, on narrow roads, hilly areas, rural areas and when visibility is poor.

(a) distancing
(b) sitting
(c) approaching ✓
(d) going

(v) Caution signs are very important as they warn about 'accident ___ spots'.

(a) speeding
(b) pron ✓
(c) Belts
(d) bus

(vi) As roads are very busy now-a-days,

(a) we should be very careful while crossing a road. ✓
(b) we should be very careful while crossing a canal.

(c) we should not be very careful while crossing a road.

(d) we should be very careful while crossing a river.

(vii) It is important that we do not try to get on or off a bus

(a) while it is not moving.

(b) while it is still moving. ✓

(c) while it is still empty.

(d) while it is still starting.

(viii) Traffic rules take into account safety for all,

(a) including play-grounds.

(b) including shopping centers.

(c) including pedestrians. ✓

(d) including mountains.

(ix) Preference is to be given to pedestrians and children

(a) driving a bus.

(b) driving a car.

(c) fastening the seat belt.

(d) crossing the road. ✓

(x) It is imperative to inflate tyres with the

(a) right air pressure to avoid tyre bursts on road. ✓

(b) full air pressure to avoid tyre bursts on road.

(c) low blood pressure to avoid tyre bursts on road.

(d) high blood pressure to avoid tyre bursts on road.

Task 3. Critical thinking — Extract the salient points of the unit and develop a mind map to summarize the text.

(i) Mind map — Road Safety (centre) with seven main points

Point 1: Cross carefully — use a pedestrian crossing or overhead bridge; never dash across; look right and left. Point 2: In a bus — do not get on or off while it is moving; do not fool around. Point 3: On a bicycle — pay attention to the road, do not cycle too far out, obey traffic rules, keep brakes and lights in order. Point 4: Avoid over-speeding — lower speed near schools, on narrow, hilly and rural roads, and when visibility is poor. Point 5: Traffic rules and signs — follow the lane, keep distance, give signals, respect other drivers; signs warn of accident-prone spots. Point 6: Seat belts — fasten them; they reduce the risk of death or serious injury. Point 7: Vehicle condition — no compromise on brakes and tyres; right air pressure; lights and indicators in working order. Centre message: road safety is a collective responsibility; stay alert at all times.

Task 4. Look at the following picture and write a short description according to the characters and situation in the picture. (Model answer.)

(i) Look at the picture and write a short description.

The picture shows a busy city road full of traffic. Cars, motor-cycles and auto-rickshaws are moving in both directions, and several people are standing on the roadside. A 'No U-turn' sign board is fixed on the left side of the road, warning drivers not to turn their vehicles there. The scene reminds us that on such busy roads everyone must follow traffic rules, obey the sign boards, and stay alert; otherwise an accident can happen at any moment.

Task 5. Write and revise a formal letter to your 'City Mayor / District Chairman' highlighting the need of a park in your area. (Model answer.)

(i) Write a formal letter to your City Mayor / District Chairman highlighting the need of a park in your area.

House No. 12, Street 4, Quetta. 15th October, 2026. To, The City Mayor, Quetta. Dear Sir, Subject: Request for a park in our area. I am writing to draw your kind attention to the urgent need of a public park in our area. Our locality has a large population, including many children and old people, but there is no park where children can play or old people can walk and sit in fresh air. As a result, children play on the roads, which is dangerous, and people have no healthy place for recreation. A park would provide a safe playground, clean air, trees and a walking track for everyone, and it would also improve the beauty of our area. I therefore request you to kindly arrange a public park in our locality at the earliest. I shall be thankful to you for this favour. Yours faithfully, Ahmed Khan.

Task 6. Use the following groups of words in your sentences by avoiding verbosity.

(i) Postpone until later

Sentence (without verbosity): He decided to postpone the meeting. ('Postpone' already means to put off until later.)

(ii) Unintentional mistake

Sentence (without verbosity): It was a mistake, not a deliberate act. ('Mistake' already means an unintentional error.)

(iii) Actual fact

Sentence (without verbosity): The fact is that he was absent yesterday. ('Fact' already means something actual.)

(iv) As it stands right now

Sentence (without verbosity): As it stands, the road is closed. ('Now' is already included in 'as it stands'.)

(i) When he entered the room, Bilal was surprised to see his aunt.

Cataphoric reference: 'he' refers forward to 'Bilal', who is named later in the sentence.

(ii) I went out with Kashif. He looked tired.

Anaphoric reference: 'He' refers back to 'Kashif', named earlier.

(iii) As she entered the building, the woman saw a huge crowd.

Cataphoric reference: 'she' refers forward to 'the woman', named later.

(iv) Khurum fell over when he was running upstairs.

Anaphoric reference: 'he' refers back to 'Khurum', named earlier.

(v) If they are late again, the hockey players will be scolded by the captain.

Cataphoric reference: 'they' refers forward to 'the hockey players', named later.

Task 8. Write five sentences showing anaphoric reference and five showing cataphoric reference. (Model answer.)

(i) Write five sentences showing anaphoric reference and five showing cataphoric reference.

Anaphoric (referring back): (1) I met Ali. He is my best friend. (2) Sara bought a book. She likes it very much. (3) The teacher entered the class. She started the lesson. (4) We saw a dog. It was barking loudly. (5) Ahmed lost his pen. He searched for it everywhere.

Cataphoric (referring forward): (1) When he came home, Ahmed took rest. (2) As she opened the door, Fatima smiled. (3) If they work hard, the students will pass. (4) Before he left, Bilal said goodbye. (5) When it rang, the bell woke everyone.

Task 9. Identify whether the verb is regular or irregular in the following sentences.

(i) Her younger daughter, Asma, always helped her.

helped — Regular verb (help + ed).

(ii) I knew him well.

knew — Irregular verb (know, knew, known).

(iii) My uncle has come back from Saudi Arabia.

come — Irregular verb (come, came, come).

Task 10. Separate regular and irregular verbs from the given list and put them in relevant column. (Invite, keep, buy, attain, cut, sing, walk, kick.)

(i) Regular and irregular verbs from the list

Regular verbs: invite (invited), attain (attained), walk (walked), kick (kicked). Irregular verbs: keep (kept), buy (bought), cut (cut), sing (sang, sung).

Task 11. (Group Discussion) 'Should we send old people to old homes?' OR 'Should we promote female education?' Discuss in groups, using appropriate conventions of interruptions. (Model answer.)

(i) Group discussion — 'Should we promote female education?' (with polite interruptions)

A: I think female education should be promoted in every village and town, because an educated mother educates the whole family. B: Sorry for interruption, my friend, I agree with you, but some people say girls should stay at home. A: Excuse me, I would like to add that an educated woman can also earn and support her family. C: Wait a minute, please — I think it also counts greatly that educated women look after health and children better. B: Here I would like to interrupt you: undoubtedly, female education is the key to the progress of the whole society. All: So we agree — female education must be promoted, and our society should respect and support it.

Unit 6 — Unity, Faith and Discipline

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) Why did the Muslims of the Subcontinent have to abandon their homes and jobs?

The Muslims of the Subcontinent had to abandon their homes, jobs and business behind them in their march towards a free country, because they struggled hard for the creation of Pakistan and had to sacrifice the lives of thousands of men, women and children for it.

(ii) What are the basic cornerstones of Muslim ideology?

The basic cornerstones of Muslim ideology are unity, faith and discipline. The lesson says these ideals are not alien to the Islamic world; they are the basic cornerstones of the Muslim ideology.

(iii) What does the Holy Quran teach the Muslims about unity?

The Holy Quran teaches the Muslims to hold fast the connection that binds them to Allah and to refrain from breaking into different creeds. Unity means oneness — a state of being a single whole — and it rejects differences or breaking into fragments.

(iv) Why did the Muslims of the Subcontinent need a separate homeland?

They needed a separate homeland where they could practise the teachings of Islam without fear. They believed in one Allah and the finality of the Nabuwat of Hazrat Muhammad-ur-Rasool Ullah Khatam-un-Nabiyeen (S.A.W), and they had their own social, economic and cultural codes of life.

(v) How did unity help the Muslims of the Subcontinent in achieving their goal?

The Muslims of the Subcontinent stood fast as one body in their movement for the creation of Pakistan and succeeded in achieving their goal. Their unity kept their hopes alive against the combined hostilities of the British and the Hindus, and prevented the struggle from losing its way.

(vi) What does faith mean?

Faith means a firm belief, confidence and trust in Allah. The Muslims have a strong belief which distinguishes them from the followers of other religions.

(vii) What does discipline mean?

Discipline means a mode of life according to rules. It makes sure that people follow the rules of conduct. The Muslims of the Subcontinent showed great discipline during the Pakistan movement, followed the instructions of their leaders in letter and spirit, and performed their individual roles as parts of a well-oiled machine.

(viii) How did Pakistani nation show the qualities of unity, faith and discipline during the war of 1965?

During the September 1965 war, the whole Pakistani nation stood united to face the challenge of the enemy. All the men, women and children stood up like a solid rock which the enemy could not break through. The soldiers, engineers, doctors, businessmen, poets, artists, students and labourers — in short all Pakistanis — worked bravely in their own fields and defeated the enemy, although the enemy was five times more powerful in men and arms. Life became more orderly during the war than in peacetime, and there were no crimes during the seventeen days war.

(ix) Why should we continue to act on the principles of unity, faith and discipline?

We must continue to act on these principles so that our country may develop rapidly and the world may be convinced that we are a united, well-organized and dedicated nation. These principles will continue to lead us to greater achievements.

(x) Why are the principles of unity, faith and discipline more important for students?

These principles are more important for students specially because students are the future builders of the nation. If students practise unity, faith and discipline, the country will develop rapidly and they will lead it to greater achievements.

Task 3. Critical thinking — 'Now-a-days, why is there more need of unity, faith and discipline in our country?' (Model answer.)

(i) Now-a-days, why is there more need of unity, faith and discipline in our country?

Nowadays there is more need of unity, faith and discipline in our country because we face many challenges: price-hike, unemployment, terrorism and provincial and sectarian differences. Only a united nation can face these problems. Faith gives us the confidence that hard work will succeed, and discipline makes every citizen play his own role honestly, whether he is a student, a trader or a government servant. Without unity we break into fragments, without faith we lose hope, and without discipline no plan can succeed. That is why Quaid-e-Azam's three principles are needed today even more than before.

Writing — Model application to the Principal to start 'Sports Week' in school. (Model answer, as printed in the lesson.)

(i) Write an application to the Principal to start 'Sports Week' in school.

To, The Headmaster/Headmistress/Principal, ABC High School, Quetta. Subject: APPLICATION TO START SPORTS WEEK. Respected Sir/Madam, With due respect, it is stated that the importance of sports and games in school encompasses more than the benefit of physical activity. Increase in self-esteem and mental alertness make school sports and games necessary for every child. It is imperative for every child to have access to sports and games. It not only empowers youth and promotes higher self-esteem but also motivates students specially, in school where obtaining certain grades is a pre-requisite for staying in the school team. Numerous physical benefits include maintaining a healthy weight, preventing chronic diseases and learning the skills necessary to maintain a healthy lifestyle. Participating in games, the students learn to consider the interests of their team mates and practise mutual respect and cooperation. Keeping in view the above mentioned facts and advantages, it is, therefore, requested to start the inter classes sports and games competitions. We will highly be thankful to you. Dated: 10-01-2017. Yours obediently, Roll No. XYZ, Class X-A.

Task 4. Write an application to the Honourable Minister for Education to introduce Information Technology (IT) classes at the school level. (Model answer.)

(i) Write an application to the Honourable Minister for Education to introduce Information Technology (IT) classes at the school level.

To, The Honourable Minister for Education, Balochistan, Quetta. Subject: REQUEST TO INTRODUCE INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY CLASSES AT SCHOOL LEVEL. Respected Sir, With due respect, it is stated that we, the students of Class X, request the introduction of Information Technology classes in our school. In the modern age, computers and the internet are used in every field of life, but our school has no IT classes, so students remain unaware of basic computer skills. IT education will help us in our studies, in future jobs, and in keeping pace with the world. It is therefore requested that IT classes, with a trained teacher and a computer laboratory, may kindly be started in our school at the earliest. We shall be highly thankful to you for this favour. Yours obediently, Students of Class X.

Unit 7 — Handicrafts of Balochistan

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) Which Balochistani handicrafts are very famous and have a great demand both domestically and internationally?

The embroidery and needle-work of Balochistan, the embroidered Balochi chapals, caps, purses and belts, Balochi hand-woven carpets and wall hangings, marble objects, pottery and ornaments — especially silver ornaments — are very famous and in great demand both domestically and internationally. The lesson notes that Balochi hand-woven carpets are an important source of foreign exchange earnings, and the ornaments are in great demand at national and international jewellery markets.

(ii) Why are these handicrafts so popular and in such high demand all over the world?

They are popular because of the beauty of their design, the richness of their colour and their economical prices. Balochistan handicrafts are known all over the world for these qualities, and they are exported to various foreign countries where they are warmly received, especially by the people of the west.

(iii) How do the women find time for embroidery?

The women do not have to go out of their houses for work. They attend to their household work and in their spare time they produce handicrafts, spending hours doing the embroidery work as a means of earning for the family.

(iv) How does embroidery and needle work help the women?

Embroidery and needle work help the women because they can do it at home in their spare time and it adds to the family income. Age is no barrier: women, young and old girls take part in the production of embroidered handicrafts.

(v) What are the most famous styles of needle work prepared in Balochistan? Name the items that are prepared using these styles of embroidery.

The most famous styles are: 'Kowchik' of Dera Bugti, embroidered on shawls and shirts for women; 'Moshamka' of Kalat and Khuzdar, embroidered on shawls, cushions, table-cloth and bed-sheets, sometimes with tiny mirror work; 'Jok' of Sibi, made with fine thread of various colours and shades, popular all over the country for the delicacy of its design; and the needle-work of Muslimbagh, Gulistan and Zhob, made with open and close stitches, specially selected for bridal dresses and colourful garments for small kids. Besides these, embroidery is done on fine leather Balochi chapals, caps, purses and belts.

(vi) Name the places where these works are produced.

Kowchik is produced in Dera Bugti; Moshamka in Kalat and Khuzdar districts; Jok in Sibi district; and the open-and-close-stitch work in Muslimbagh, Gulistan and Zhob areas. The Afghan women also contribute designs seen at the handicraft shops in Quetta.

(vii) Which style of embroidery involves lesser amount of labour as well as lesser amount of thread?

The needle-work of Muslimbagh, Gulistan and Zhob areas involves lesser labour and lesser quantity of thread than that needed for the other designs of embroidery, because it is produced through the use of open and close stitches.

(viii) How have the Afghan women contributed to the embroidery of Balochistan?

The Afghan refugees brought with them a number of new designs and techniques in needle-work. The Afghan women are especially good in embroidery and spend most of their time making rich and colourful designs, which are seen at the handicraft shops in Quetta.

(ix) Where does the crude marble come from, and what is it used for?

Crude marble is dug out in the Chaghi district of Balochistan and transported to the industrial centres of the country, including Hub, where the stone is transformed into attractive forms and polished before the items are sent to the market. It is used for marble table-sets, ash-trays, bath-tubs and decoration pieces which add to the glamour of houses and offices.

(x) What is the importance of Balochi silver ornaments?

Balochi ornaments, specially silver ornaments, show the skill and artistry of the craftsmen. The whole process of ornament production, from melting the metal to the finished product, is accomplished without using any machine, and the ornaments are in great demand at national and international jewellery markets. They are also items of special interest and attraction for women, and they add to the foreign exchange earnings of the country.

Critical Thinking — How do handicrafts boost-up the image of Pakistan at international level? (Model answer.)

(i) How do handicrafts boost-up the image of Pakistan at international level?

Handicrafts boost up the image of Pakistan at the international level because they are exported to various foreign countries, where they are warmly received, especially by the people of the west. Balochi hand-woven carpets are an important source of foreign exchange earnings, and the ornaments are in great demand at national and international jewellery markets. The handicraft industry is encouraged and supported at the government level; it adds to foreign exchange earnings, provides jobs to thousands, and boosts up the image of the country in international circles because handicrafts reflect the artistic temperament of a nation.

(i) Group presentation — 'Poverty is a curse.' (outline)

Introduction: Poverty is a curse because it snatches away man's dignity, health and education, and forces him to live a life of misery. Main points: (1) A poor man cannot afford good food, clothes, medicine or education for his children. (2) Poverty gives birth to crimes, child labour and begging. (3) It destroys the peace of the family and the progress of the country. (4) The solution lies in education, hard work, skill development and government support for the poor. Conclusion: If we remove poverty through education and employment, our country will progress and every citizen will live with honour. Roles were assigned in preparation, each member presented one point clearly, supported opinions with reasons, and acknowledged others' contributions.

Unit 8 — Be Kind (Poem) — by Margaret Courtney

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) What is the role of kindness in our life?

Kindness plays a central role in our life: it brings sweet hours, blesses our pathway and crowns it, and affection weaves us a garland of flowers more precious than wealth or renown. Kindness to our family members keeps love alive in the home and earns us blessings in return.

(ii) How does a father deserve to be treated in his old age?

A father deserves to be treated with kindness in his old age. When we were young, he loved us fondly, caught the first accents that fell from our tongue, and joined in our innocent glee. Now he is old, his locks are intermingled with grey, his footsteps are feeble, once fearless and bold, and he is passing away — so we must be kind to him.

(iii) Why should we be kind to our brothers?

We should be kind to our brothers because a brother's heart will have dearth if the smile of our love is withdrawn, and the flowers of feeling will fade at their birth if the dew of affection is gone. The love of a brother is an ornament purer and richer by far than pearls from the depths of the sea.

(iv) What is the attitude of mother towards her child?

The mother is loving and kind towards her child. Traces of sorrow may be seen on her brow, yet she is loving and kind; she prays for her child as long as God gives her breath, and she deserves to be cherished and comforted with accents of kindness.

(v) What will happen if a brother does not receive kind treatment at our hands?

If a brother does not receive kind treatment at our hands, his heart will have dearth, and the flowers of feeling will fade at their birth, because the dew of affection will be gone.

(vi) How should we treat our sisters?

We should treat our sisters with kindness, because not many may know the depth of true sisterly love. The wealth of the ocean lies fathoms below the surface that sparkles above — so a sister's deep love must be valued, not judged by appearances.

(vii) What do we get in return for our kindness?

In return for our kindness we get many sweet hours, and affection weaves us a garland of flowers more precious than wealth or renown. Our kindness blesses our pathway and crowns it.

Task 2. Choose the correct option to complete the following sentences. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

(a) true sister

(b) true sisterly ✓

(c) untrue sisterly

(d) untrue sister

Task 3. Critical Thinking — Why should we be kind to our parents? (Model answer.)

(i) Why should we be kind to our parents?

We should be kind to our parents because they sacrificed their comfort for us when we were young. Our father loved us fondly, caught our first words and joined in our innocent happiness; our mother is loving and kind and prays for us as long as God gives her breath. Now they are old — his footsteps are feeble and his locks are grey, and traces of sorrow may be seen on her brow. It is our duty to cherish and comfort them with accents of kindness, because no wealth can repay their love, and kindness to parents brings blessings in this world and the next.

Task 4. Paraphrase the following stanza.

(i) Be kind to thy brother: wherever you are, / The love of a brother shall be / An ornament purer and richer by far, / Than pearls from the depths of the sea.

Paraphrase: Wherever you live, you should be kind to your brother, because a brother's love is a decoration far purer and more valuable than the pearls found deep in the sea.

Task 5. Write summary of the poem. (Model answer.)

(i) Write summary of the poem 'Be Kind'.

The poem 'Be Kind' by Margaret Courtney teaches us to be kind to all our family members. We should be kind to our father, who loved us fondly when we were young and is now old and feeble; kind to our mother, who is loving and kind and prays for us all her life; kind to our brother, whose love is purer and richer than pearls from the sea; and kind to our sister, whose true sisterly love is deeper than the sparkling surface of the ocean. In return, our kindness brings us many sweet hours, blesses our pathway, and earns us a garland of flowers woven by affection, more precious than wealth or fame. The message of the poem is that kindness in the family is the greatest wealth of life.

Task 6. Write a personal narrative about 'The funniest thing ever happened to you.' (Model answer.)

(i) Write a personal narrative about 'The funniest thing ever happened to you.'

The funniest thing that ever happened to me took place at my cousin's wedding. I was asked to carry a tray of sweets to the guests, and I walked very proudly, trying to look like a responsible elder. Suddenly my foot slipped on a banana peel, and the sweets flew in every direction — one landed on my uncle's head, and another in the lap of a guest. For a moment there was complete silence, and then everyone, including my uncle, burst into laughter. My face turned red, but soon I was laughing too. Even today, whenever my family remembers that wedding, they remember my flying sweets first, and we all laugh again.

Task 13. What should be our role in making this world a peaceful place to live in? Discuss in groups. (Model answer.)

(i) What should be our role in making this world a peaceful place to live in? (group discussion points)

Our role is to be kind, tolerant and just: we should respect other people's religions, opinions and rights, avoid quarrels and violence, and solve differences by talking, not fighting. We should help the poor and the weak, protect the environment, obey the law, and teach our children love and respect. If every person plays his own small role with honesty and kindness, the whole world will become a peaceful place to live in.

Revision (Units 5-8)

Q1. Answer the following questions.

(i) How should we ride bicycle on the road?

We must pay attention to the road and never cycle too far out to the middle of the road. We must obey all traffic rules and make sure our bicycles are in good condition with working brakes, lights etc.

(ii) Why should we take pre-cautionary steps on the road?

We should take precautionary steps on the road because every day many people face road accidents; some are killed and some are injured or maimed. Road safety is very much up to how we use the roads.

(iii) How should we change a lane or take turn while driving a vehicle?

While changing lanes or before taking a turn, it is important to display appropriate indications/signals. We must follow the lane and keep the required distance between vehicles.

(iv) Why are traffic signs important for us?

Traffic signs are very important because they warn about 'accident prone spots' so that the driver can reduce the speed of the vehicle. Signboards on the road are vital clues about road design so that the person behind the wheel can exercise caution.

(v) What ideals kept Muslims' hopes alive against the combined hostilities of the British and Hindus?

The ideals of unity, faith and discipline kept their hopes alive. These principles lighted their way when darkness and despair spread all around and prevented the struggle of millions of people from losing its way.

(vi) What does faith mean?

Faith means a firm belief, confidence and trust in Allah.

(vii) Where can the principles of unity, faith and discipline lead us to?

These principles can lead us to greater achievements and to rapid development of our country, and they convince the world that we are a united, well-organized and dedicated nation.

Q9. Paraphrase the 3rd stanza of the poem 'Be Kind'.

(i) Be kind to thy mother — for lo! on her brow / May traces of sorrow be seen: / Oh, well may'st thou cherish and comfort her now, / For loving and kind hath she been.

Paraphrase: Be kind to your mother, for signs of sorrow can be seen on her forehead. You should love and comfort her now, because she has always been loving and kind to you.

Q10. Write the summary of the poem 'Be Kind'. (Model answer.)

(i) Write the summary of the poem 'Be Kind'.

The poem 'Be Kind' teaches us to be kind to our family members: to our father, who is now old and feeble after loving us fondly in our childhood; to our mother, who is loving and kind and prays for us all her life; to our brother, whose love is purer and richer than pearls; and to our sister, whose true sisterly love is deeper than the ocean. Kindness brings sweet hours and a garland of flowers woven by affection, more precious than wealth or fame.

Q11. Critical Thinking — Why should we be kind to our family members? (Model answer.)

(i) Why should we be kind to our family members?

We should be kind to our family members because they are the people who love us most and sacrifice for us. Our parents brought us up with love, our brother's love is purer than pearls, and our sister's love is deeper than the ocean. Kindness keeps the family united and happy, and in return it brings us sweet hours, blessings and a garland of affection more precious than wealth or fame.

Q12. Creative Writing — Write a composition on planning to promote the handicrafts of Balochistan as a profession. (Model answer.)

(i) Write a composition on planning to promote the handicrafts of Balochistan as a profession.

The handicrafts of Balochistan — embroidery, carpets, marble work, pottery and ornaments — are famous all over the world, yet the craftsmen remain poor. To promote handicrafts as a profession, the government should set up training centres where young people learn embroidery, carpet-weaving and marble work, and give them loans to start their own workshops. Exhibitions and handicraft shops should be opened in big cities and abroad, and the craftsmen should be taught to sell their products through the internet. If handicrafts are promoted as a profession, thousands of people will get jobs, foreign exchange will increase, and the beautiful art of Balochistan will never die.

Unit 9 — Importance of Trees

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) Why are trees important for us?

Trees are important for us in many ways: they add beauty to the world, help man in discovering new places, provide raw material for many industries, give us fruits, medicines, timber and foreign exchange, preserve the land, regulate the atmosphere, and protect animal and bird life. No place of beauty in the world is complete without trees.

(ii) What are the uses of wood?

Wood is used for making furniture, boats, doors and window frames. Paper is manufactured from wood. Large boats and ships were built of wood, and the wood of trees helped large armies to move across to foreign lands. Wood is the raw material for many industries.

(iii) How do trees help us to earn cash?

Trees help us to earn cash because good timber is sold for good cash, and countries with plenty of trees are prosperous because of their large forests. Malaysia is the largest producer of natural rubber in the world, and rubber is collected from rubber trees. Pakistan exports apples, mangoes and oranges in large quantities and earns a lot of foreign exchange. The olive tree holds a significant economic value: its fruit is used for edible oil and medicines.

(iv) How are trees useful in the field of medicine?

The leaves, the bark (outer-skin) and roots of trees are used for making different kinds of medicines. Malaria, which once killed a large number of people, has been controlled by quinine, which is made from the Cinchona tree. Corks, obtained from the trunks of the cork-oak, are used as stoppers for bottles.

(v) How do trees preserve the land?

Trees preserve the land because they check the force of winds and rain, and their roots bind the soil together. They do not allow rain water to carry away the rich soil, and they prevent landslides and soil erosion in floods.

(vi) What is the importance of olive trees for us?

The blessed olive tree is one of the oldest trees of history. It is cultivated in a variety of soils and ecological zones, and it holds a significant economic value. Its fruit as well as wood is very worthwhile: its fruit is specially used for edible oil and for different medicines. Spain is the largest producer of olive oil in the world, growing olive trees on 2–6 million hectares, and Allah Almighty has blessed Pakistan with a suitable climate to grow olive trees over 4.4 million hectares in all parts of the country.

(vii) What are the dangerous consequences of cutting down the trees?

Cutting and burning of trees lead to ever greater quantities of carbon mono-oxide being released. The gases make a blanket around the earth which holds in the heat of the sun — the 'green house effect'. The increase in average world temperature is going to melt more and more ice near the poles, increase the amount of water in the oceans, raise their level, and submerge some islands in the South western Pacific. This situation is extremely dangerous for the future of the world and for life on earth.

(viii) What do you mean by green house effect?

The green house effect means the holding in of the heat of the sun by the blanket of gases around the earth. Just as glass-rooms allow the rays of the sun to give warmth and light to the plants but do not let the temperature inside fall to freezing points, the cover of carbon mono-oxide around the earth is making the whole world a big 'green house'.

(ix) What change in temperature has taken place during the last hundred years?

The lesson states that the increase in average world temperature is going to melt more and more ice near the poles and raise the level of the oceans. (The lesson does not give a figure for the last hundred years; it warns of the rising average temperature caused by the cutting and burning of trees.)

(x) How can we ensure a happy and healthy future for ourselves?

We can ensure a happy and healthy future for ourselves by making efforts all over the world to increase the number of trees, so that the atmosphere is regulated, the land is preserved, and the dangerous green house effect is checked.

Task 2. Choose the correct option to complete the following sentences. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

(i) Trees add ___ to the world.

(a) pollution
(b) noise
(c) beauty ✓
(d) dirt

(ii) Man used ___ to travel on the rivers.

(a) tree-trunks ✓
(b) boats
(c) ships
(d) trees

(iii) Trees provide ___ material for many industries.

(vii) Trees ___ the land from its erosion.

(a) grow

(b) enhance

(c) break

(d) preserve ✓

(viii) Trees produce ___ fruits.

(a) delicious ✓

(b) rotten

(c) spicy

(d) salty

(ix) Trees ___ the atmosphere of dangerous gases.

(a) protect

(b) purify ✓

(c) wash

(d) neglect

(x) Men should ___ more and more trees.

(a) water

(b) clean

(c) plant ✓

(d) cut

Task 3. Critical Thinking — Write a short report on 'Trees are a blessing'. (Model answer.)

(i) Write a short report on 'Trees are a blessing'.

Trees are a blessing for mankind. They add beauty to the world and make every place of rest comfortable with their shade. They provide timber for furniture, boats and houses, paper for books, fruits for food, and medicines like quinine from the Cinchona tree. They earn foreign exchange through exports of fruits and rubber, preserve the land by binding the soil, and regulate the atmosphere by absorbing carbon dioxide and giving out oxygen. Without trees, the world would face soil erosion, floods, pollution and the dangerous green house effect. Therefore, planting more and more trees is the duty of every citizen, so that a happy and healthy future of the world is ensured.

Task 5. Write a persuasive essay on 'Seeking Education is Essential for All.' (Model answer.)

(i) Write a persuasive essay on 'Seeking Education is Essential for All.'

Education is the right of every child, rich or poor, boy or girl. Without education, a person cannot read, write, or understand the world around him, and he remains dependent on others all his life. Education gives us knowledge, skills and confidence; it teaches us to tell right from wrong, to respect others, and to earn a respectable living. An educated nation progresses in science, industry and health, while an uneducated nation remains backward. Some people say that poor families cannot afford education, but the government provides free education, books and scholarships, and every child should use them. Therefore, seeking education is essential for all, and no child should be left out of school.

Task 6. Punctuate the following sentences by using semicolon (;) wherever required.

(i) You should stop eating so much food you will have to go on diet.

(i) If I had enough money, I would buy a plane.

If I have enough money, I will buy a plane.

(ii) If he worked hard, he would pass the exams.

If he works hard, he will pass the exams.

(iii) If my boss phoned, I would attend his call.

If my boss phones, I will attend his call.

(iv) If they wrote letters, the teacher would read.

If they write letters, the teacher will read.

(v) If you got sick, father would take you to doctor.

If you get sick, father will take you to doctor.

Task 11. Group discussion — Divide the class into different groups and ask them to share their ideas and information about 'The Causes of Environmental Degradation', and plan to raise awareness of the trees plantation. (Model answer.)

(i) Group discussion — 'The Causes of Environmental Degradation' and raising awareness of tree plantation.

Causes of environmental degradation: cutting and burning of trees, smoke from factories and vehicles, throwing garbage and plastic in streets and rivers, and wasting water and electricity. Effects: polluted air and water, soil erosion, floods, rising temperature and the green house effect. Plan to raise awareness of tree plantation: every student should plant at least one tree and look after it; schools should arrange tree plantation days; posters and speeches should explain that trees absorb carbon dioxide, give out oxygen, preserve the land and earn foreign exchange; and the community should be asked to stop cutting trees and to plant more and more trees for a happy and healthy future.

Unit 10 — Providing First Aid

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) When does a person require first aid?

A person requires first aid when he is suffering a sudden illness or injury. First aid is the assistance given to any person suffering a sudden illness or injury to preserve life, prevent the condition from worsening and promote recovering. Burns, bone fractures, wounds and bleeding often require first aid, and first aid knowledge ranges from taking care of cuts to dealing with an unconscious person.

(ii) How can a life be saved?

A life can be saved by first aid, whose most important aim is to save life and minimize the risk of death. Any lay man can be trained to administer first aid: stop the bleeding with gentle pressure, clean the wound, apply an antibiotic and cover it, and take the victim to hospital immediately if blood spurts or continues flowing after continuous pressure.

(iii) What are key aims of first aid?

The key aims of first aid, sometimes known as the three Ps, are: (1) Preserve life — the most important aim is to save life and minimize the risk of death. (2) Prevent further harm — this covers moving a patient away from any cause of harm, and applying first aid techniques to prevent worsening of the condition. (3) Promote recovering — trying to start the recovering process from injury or illness, and in some cases completing a treatment, such as applying a plaster to a small wound.

(iv) What are the conditions that require first aid?

Burns, bone fractures, wounds and bleeding often require first aid. First aid knowledge ranges from taking care of cuts to dealing with an unconscious person, and it is needed by any person suffering a sudden illness or injury.

(v) Why should we cover the wound?

We should cover the wound because bandages help keep the wound clean and keep harmful bacteria out. Covering also helps keep the surface moist so the body's natural healing process can work fast.

(vi) What basic contents are recommended for a first aid box?

Every office, factory, home and school should have an accessible first-aid box with: band-aids (plasters) for small wounds; elastic bandages for sprained joints or a sling for a broken arm; gauze and adhesive tape for larger cuts and scrapes; antiseptic wipes (alcohol swabs) and cotton wool for cleaning wounds; safety pins and tweezers; scissors for cutting tape and gauze; latex gloves, especially when dealing with body fluids of a stranger; and calamine lotion for soothing sunburns and stings.

(vii) How can bleeding be stopped from cuts and wounds?

Minor cuts and scrapes usually stop bleeding on their own. If they do not, apply gentle pressure with a clean cloth or bandage, and hold the pressure continuously for 20 to 30 seconds. Do not keep checking to see if the bleeding has stopped, because this may damage or dislodge the clot that is forming and cause bleeding to resume. If blood spurts or continues flowing after continuous pressure, take the victim to hospital immediately.

(viii) What is the function of applying antibiotic cream on wounds?

After cleaning the wound, a thin layer of antibiotic cream or ointment helps keep the surface moist. The ointment does not make the wound heal faster, but it can help the body's natural healing process work fast, and cleaning reduces the risk of infection and tetanus.

(ix) How can sprained joints be wrapped?

Sprained joints can be wrapped with elastic bandages, which are good for wrapping sprained joints or making a sling in the case of a broken arm.

(x) What things can be used to cover the wound?

Bandages, band-aids (plasters) for small wounds, gauze-pads or rolls with adhesive tape for larger cuts, and in an emergency a clean cloth or hand towel can be used to cover the wound.

Task 2. Choose the best option to complete the following sentences. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

(i) The most important aim of first aid is

(a) to save life and minimize the risk of death. ✓

(b) to take patient to hospital.

(d) finger to protect and control bleeding.

(x) Any lay man can be trained to

(a) take first aid.

(b) read first aid.

(c) administer first aid. ✓

(d) buy first aid kit.

Critical Thinking — How can first aid awareness be raised in the educational institutions? (Model answer.)

(i) How can first aid awareness be raised in the educational institutions?

First aid awareness can be raised in educational institutions by training teachers and students in basic first aid, arranging demonstrations and practice sessions, and keeping a well-stocked first aid box in every school. Speeches, posters and competitions can explain the three Ps — preserve life, prevent further harm, promote recovering — and show how to stop bleeding, clean and cover wounds, and deal with burns, fractures and unconscious persons. If every student learns first aid, schools will become safer places and many lives can be saved.

Task 3. Translate the following paragraph into Urdu. (This answer is in Urdu, as the book requires.)

(i) First aid is the assistance given to any person suffering a sudden illness or injury to preserve life, prevent the condition from worsening and promote recovering. It is the temporary and immediate help. Any lay man can be trained to administer first aid. First aid knowledge ranges from taking care of cuts to dealing with an unconscious person.

ابتدائی طبی امداد وہ مدد ہے جو کسی شخص کو اچانک بیماری یا چوٹ لگنے پر زندگی بچانے، حالت بگڑنے سے روکنے اور صحت یابی کو فروغ دینے کے لیے دی جاتی ہے۔ یہ عارضی اور فوری مدد ہوتی ہے۔ کوئی بھی عام آدمی ابتدائی طبی امداد دینے کی تربیت حاصل کر سکتا ہے۔ ابتدائی طبی امداد کا علم معمولی زخموں کی دیکھ بھال سے لے کر بے ہوش شخص سے نمٹنے تک پھیلا ہوا ہے۔

Task 4. Proofread, and edit the given passage. Correct the following errors: verb tense, missing punctuation marks, spellings, subject-verb agreement.

(i) I am lucky to have such a wonderful family. They have always treat me like a special person. Now that I lived in England I dont get to see most of them. Writing about my family keeps them close to my heart. I will start by telling about my mother. Her name is Saira. She is 36 years old and was born in Quetta, Balochistan. Her birthday is on February 27. She is a lady doctor and have a very loving nature. My mother is the best person in the whole world for me.

Corrected passage: I am lucky to have such a wonderful family. They have always treated me like a special person. Now that I live in England, I don't get to see most of them. Writing about my family keeps them close to my heart. I will start by telling about my mother. Her name is Saira. She is 36 years old and was born in Quetta, Balochistan. Her birthday is on February 27. She is a lady doctor and has a very loving nature. My mother is the best person in the whole world for me. (Corrections: treat → treated; lived → live; dont → don't, with a comma after 'England'; have → has, to agree with 'she'.)

Task 5. Write five sentences using parenthesis to express an amount in numbers previously expressed in words. (Model answer.)

(i) Write five sentences using parenthesis to express an amount in numbers previously expressed in words.

(1) He spent ten thousand rupees (Rs. 10000) on buying clothes. (2) Almost ninety percent (90%) students have qualified for next class. (3) My father walks five kilometers (5km) daily. (4) She bought twenty books (20) for the school library. (5) Our school has five hundred students (500) in ten classes.

Passive: The poor will be helped by them.

Unit 11 — The Pleasure of Reading Books

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) How does reading books provide pleasure to the readers?

Reading books provides the highest kind of pleasure: books bring immense joy, enlarge the frontiers of knowledge and widen the outlook of the reader. Good novels and books of imagination give pleasure and amusement, and when we are tired or the brain is weary with serious study, it is a healthy recreation to immerse ourselves in some absorbing story written by a master hand. Reading is also a nice means to relax and de-stress after a hard day.

(ii) What is the importance of reading poetry?

Reading poetry holds immense importance, for the best poetry gives us noble thoughts and beautiful imaginings clothed in lovely and musical language.

(iii) How do books stay with us during the whole life?

Books stay with us during the whole life: in babyhood we hear parents read us fairy tales, in our teens we swallow exciting suspense novels page after page, and when we become adults we still find gripping books that absorb us. Books are our everlasting friends.

(iv) How has the media affected the habit of reading books?

The media has affected the habit of reading because reading is a trend that is slowly diminishing as other media which seem more attractive are taking its place. More and more people prefer to watch TV or surf on the Internet instead of reading, and many people say that modern life is so fast and full of action that they do not have time and desire to read books.

(v) 'Books contain grains of wisdom.' Explain it.

This means that books contain small but valuable pieces of wisdom. They give us sound moral advice and teach us what is right and what is wrong. A book guides us in different ways: it is a friend and a teacher, and after reading some books it is easy to understand what should be done and what must not be done.

(vi) Why does not a person feel lonely in the presence of books?

A person does not feel lonely in the presence of books because, so long as he has his beloved books, he never feels lonely. Books are a veritable treasure: you can never be lonely in the company of a good book, and a reader always has a pleasant occupation of leisure moments, so that he never feels bored.

(vii) How can we hear the voices and thoughts of the authors who lived in different ages and countries?

A book gives us a unique chance to link up with authors who lived in different ages and countries. Through reading books we hear their voices, thoughts and feelings, even though they lived centuries ago or in far-off lands.

(viii) What is the importance of choosing the right kind of books?

Choosing the right kind of books is important because the blessings which the reading habit confers on its possessor are many, provided that we choose the right kind of books. Good books give pleasure, education and knowledge, while the wrong books would waste our time and give no benefit.

(ix) What sort of books do you read in your free time?

In my free time I read good novels, books of imagination and informative books on history, biography and science, because they give me both pleasure and knowledge. (Personal answer — the student's own choice may differ.)

(x) How can books be our ever-lasting friends?

Books can be our ever-lasting friends because they stay with us during the whole life — from fairy tales in babyhood, through suspense novels in our teens, to gripping books in adulthood. A good book never leaves us lonely, and the deeper we delve into reading, the more we are drawn to it.

Task 2. Choose the correct option to complete the following sentences. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

(i) Happy is the man who acquires the habit of ___ when he is young.

(a) writing
(b) speaking
(c) listening
(d) reading ✓

(ii) It is said, 'Reading is to the ___ what exercise is to the body.'

(a) mind ✓
(b) head
(c) body
(d) hand

(iii) There are numerous books to please ___ readers.

(a) same
(b) different ✓
(c) old
(d) young

(iv) More and more people prefer to watch TV or ___ on the Internet instead of reading.

(a) surf ✓

(b) sit

(c) use

(d) look

(v) Reading is a nice means to relax after a hard day's work.

(a) stress

(b) de-stress ✓

(c) sit

(d) sleep

Task 3. Write 'T' for true and 'F' for false sentences. (Statements in blue; T/F answer in red.)

(i) Different kinds of books give us different types of pleasure. T

(ii) The best poetry gives us the noble thoughts and beautiful imaginings clothed in depressed and musical language. F

(iii) There are a lot of people who are sure that products of modern technologies like radio can replace traditional books. F

(iv) After reading some books, it is easy to understand what should be done and what must not be done. T

(v) Book also gives a unique chance to link up with authors who lived centuries ago. T

Task 4. Read the following paragraph and infer the missing words.

(i) Reading books can develop a person's comprehension by learning ___ words. The easiest way to ___ this is to look up meanings of the words in the ___ which are not understood when they are read first time. Writing these words down and reciting them ___ also help to keep them in memory. Incorporating these new words in ___ speaking will increase language skills and ___ confidence of the speaker as well. The second effect that ___ books has is vocabulary growth. Along the same lines of comprehension, the growth of ___ is also very important. Having large vocabulary is not only impressive but also ___ in many areas of public speaking.

Completed paragraph: Reading books can develop a person's comprehension by learning new words. The easiest way to do this is to look up meanings of the words in the dictionary which are not understood when they are read first time. Writing these words down and reciting them regularly also help to keep them in memory. Incorporating these new words in daily speaking will increase language skills and boost confidence of the speaker as well. The second effect that reading books has is vocabulary growth. Along the same lines of comprehension, the growth of vocabulary is also very important. Having large vocabulary is not only impressive but also helpful in many areas of public speaking.

Task 5. Can modern equipments replace the habit of reading books? Discuss in groups. (Model answer.)

(i) Can modern equipments replace the habit of reading books? (group discussion points)

Modern equipments like computers, TV and the internet cannot fully replace the habit of reading books. They give information quickly, but they do not give the deep pleasure, lasting effect and moral training that books give. Reading makes the brain work: we imagine the characters, judge right and wrong, and enlarge our vocabulary. The pleasure derived from other entertainments may be good, but their effect is not as lasting as the effect of reading. Therefore, modern technology can support reading, but it can never replace good books.

Task 6. Write précis of the second paragraph of the unit. (Model answer.)

(i) Write précis of the second paragraph of the unit. (Second paragraph: 'Happy is the man who acquires the habit of reading when he is young...')

Précis: A man who learns reading in youth gains a lifelong source of pleasure, instruction and inspiration. With his beloved books he never feels lonely or bored, and he owns a wealth more precious than gold; but the man who does not read lives an empty life.

Task 7. Write eight sentences using parenthesis to mark off explanatory or supplementary material. (Model answer.)

Task 11. Divide the class into different groups and ask each group to choose a group leader. Then assign them the task of preparing a presentation on 'Importance of reading'. (Model outline.)

(i) Group presentation — 'Importance of reading.' (outline)

Introduction: Reading is the greatest pleasure of life and the best way to gain knowledge. Main points: (1) Books bring immense joy, enlarge knowledge and widen our outlook. (2) Reading poetry gives noble thoughts in lovely and musical language. (3) Books are everlasting friends, from fairy tales in childhood to gripping books in adulthood. (4) Reading sharpens the intellect, encourages imagination and enhances vocabulary. Conclusion: Every student should make reading a daily habit, because a reader is never lonely and never bored. The group leader presents the topic, takes questions from the students and answers them politely.

Unit 12 — A Silly Master (Story)

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) Why did Qasim build a house in the city?

Qasim built a house in the city because he wanted his son and daughter to be well-educated. His two children were very young when they moved to the city.

(ii) Why did Qasim trust Jamal?

Qasim trusted Jamal because Jamal was his old servant on whom he depended for the management of his fields. Jamal was very clever, and Qasim gave him the management of the fields while he himself lived in the city.

(iii) Why could not Jamal deceive Qasim?

Jamal could not deceive Qasim because Qasim was cleverer than Jamal. Qasim could tell, by going round his lands, how much grain his fields were going to produce, and he could easily estimate the expected income. He gave Jamal no chance to deceive him, and in this way Qasim was earning a lot without doing anything.

(iv) Was Naeem as clever as his father? If not, give some reasons.

No, Naeem was not as clever as his father. Naeem was a simpleton: he never took the trouble of going to the village to inspect the fields and the crops, because his father gave him enough money for his personal expenses. After his father's death he believed Jamal's foolish stories — that the jackals were his master's guests who wanted warm blankets and food — and he gave Jamal a thousand rupees on the first night and another thousand rupees on the second night, while Jamal simply pocketed the money and drove the jackals away with stones.

(v) Why did Naeem's mother advise him to go to the village?

Naeem's mother advised him to go to the village because the cotton crop had been harvested and sold, but Jamal had sent them a lesser amount than usual. She wanted her son to personally inspect the fields as his father used to do, and to check if everything was going on well.

(vi) Why was Naeem hesitant to go to the village?

Naeem was hesitant to go to the village because he did not want to go away from the city. He was so used to the comforts of city life that he felt uneasy when he had to go to the village. Only after his mother kept on advising him did he go and stay with his manager, Jamal.

(vii) What did Naeem hear while sitting in the room?

While sitting by the fire place in winter, Naeem suddenly heard a strange noise: the jackals were howling outside. He asked, 'What's the noise?' and Jamal replied that it was the noise of jackals sitting outside and howling.

(viii) How much money did Naeem give to Jamal to get rid of the Jackals on the first night?

On the first night Naeem handed Jamal a thousand rupee note for the jackals, so that they could buy blankets. Jamal put the money in his pocket, went outside, threw some stones at the jackals, and they ran away.

(ix) What happened the next night?

The next night the jackals came again when Naeem was sleeping, and he was disturbed by the noise. He called Jamal and asked why they had come back. Jamal told him that they were hungry and wanted food, because they were not cold any more (since Naeem had given them money for blankets) and they were asking him for food because he was their master. Naeem gave Jamal another thousand rupees for food, and Jamal again pocketed the money and scared the jackals away.

(x) How did Jamal prove to be a clever servant?

Jamal proved to be a clever servant by deceiving his simple master again and again: he kept the lesser amount of the cotton crop money, and then he took a thousand rupees for the jackals' blankets and another thousand for their food, while he only threw stones to drive the jackals away. On the third night, when Naeem asked what the jackals wanted, Jamal cleverly replied that they did not want anything — they had simply come to say, 'Thank you.'

Task 2. Choose the correct option to complete the following sentences. (Correct option marked with a green tick.)

(i) Qasim had built a house in the city

(a) because he wanted his son and daughter to be well-educated. ✓

(b) because he wanted his sons to be well-educated.

(c) because he wanted his children to be farmers.

(d) because he wanted his children to be illiterate.

(ii) Qasim earned a lot of money from his lands, but

(a) now most of the work was done by his servants. ✓

(b) now some of the work was done by his servants.

(c) now some of the work was done by his brothers.

(d) now most of the work was done by his uncles.

(iii) Jamal was very clever, but his master,

(a) Qasim was fool.

(b) Qasim, was more clever.

(c) Qasim, was cleverer. ✓

(d) Qasim was wise.

(iv) The cotton crop had been harvested and sold, but Jamal had sent them

(a) lesser amount than usual. ✓

(b) more amount than usual.

(c) least amount than usual.

(d) most amount than usual.

(v) His mother advised him to go to the village and check

(a) if animals were fine.

(b) if everything was going on well. ✓

(c) if Jamal was sick.

(d) if their house was sold.

(vi) Jamal had lit a fire in the room and

(a) Qasim was sitting by the fire place.

(b) Naeem was sitting in the lawn.

(c) Naeem was sitting by the computer.

(d) Naeem was sitting by the fire place. ✓

(vii) The jackals were

(a) howling outside. ✓

(b) barking outside.

(d) sitting inside.

(viii) Naeem handed Jamal

(a) a Ten rupee note for jackals.

(b) a fifty rupee note for jackals.

(c) a thousand rupee note for goats.

(d) a thousand rupee note for the jackals. ✓

(ix) Who had been deceiving Naeem?

(a) Qasim had been deceiving Naeem.

(b) Jackals had been deceiving Naeem.

(c) Jamal had been deceiving Naeem. ✓

(d) Shopkeeper had been deceiving Naeem.

(x) "They did not want anything", sir, replied Jamal,

(a) "They had simply come to say, sorry".

(b) "They had simply come to buy tomatoes."

(c) "They had simply come to frighten you."

(d) "They had simply come to say, Thank you". ✓

Task 3. Critical Thinking — Write a paragraph on 'Think before you speak'. (Model answer.)

(i) Write a paragraph on 'Think before you speak'.

We should always think before we speak, because words once spoken cannot be taken back. A careless word can hurt someone's feelings, spoil a friendship, or create a quarrel, while a thoughtful word can comfort, encourage and win hearts. Naeem, the silly master in the story, spoke and acted without thinking, and Jamal deceived him again and again. If we pause for a moment, consider the result of our words, and then speak politely and wisely, we will avoid many troubles in life and earn the respect of others.

Task 4. Write a story about an unforgettable event of your life. (Model answer.)

(i) Write a story about an unforgettable event of your life.

An unforgettable event of my life took place when I was in class five. One day, on my way to school, I saw an old man fall down on the road. His bag had fallen open and his papers were scattered. All the passers-by walked past him, but I stopped, helped him to stand up, and collected his papers. He thanked me with tears in his eyes and said, 'May Allah bless you, my son.' That day my teacher also praised me in the class. I can never forget that event, because it taught me that helping others is the greatest happiness of life.

Task 5. Write five sentences each using transitive and intransitive verbs. (Model answer.)

(i) Write five sentences each using transitive and intransitive verbs.

Transitive verbs (with an object): (1) My mother taught me. (2) She read a story yesterday. (3) I wrote a paragraph. (4) The peon rings the bell. (5) He sells pencils. Intransitive verbs (without an object): (1) He jumped. (2) I laughed. (3) The baby cried. (4) The sun rises in the east. (5) The birds fly in the sky.

Unit 13 — Try Again (Poem) — by William Edward Hickson

Task 1. Comprehension — Answer the following questions.

(i) What is the lesson taught in the first stanza?

The lesson taught in the first stanza is: 'Tis a lesson you should heed, Try, try again; If at first you don't succeed, Try, try again. It teaches us that if we fail at first, we should not give up but try again and again.

(ii) What should one do if he does not succeed?

If one does not succeed, he should try again. The poet says: If at first you don't succeed, try, try again; and once or twice, though you should fail, try, try again.

(iii) How is failure not a disgrace?

Failure is not a disgrace because, as the poem says, if we strive, 'tis no disgrace though we do not win the race. What matters is that we tried with courage and patience; losing after an honest effort brings no shame.

(iv) Why do people fear in doing difficult tasks?

People fear in doing difficult tasks because they fear failure and disgrace. They think the task is hard and they may not succeed, so they hesitate. The poem answers this fear: if you persevere, your courage will appear, and you will conquer, never fear.

(v) What can we learn from our failure?

From our failure we can learn to try again with more courage, patience and experience. Failure teaches us our weaknesses and prepares us for success; if we strive, it is no disgrace, and time will bring us our reward.

(vi) How can we overcome the fear?

We can overcome the fear by persevering: 'Then your courage should appear, For if you will persevere, You will conquer, never fear, Try, try again.' Trying again and again removes the fear of failure.

(vii) Why is patience essential for becoming victorious?

Patience is essential for becoming victorious because success does not come at once: struggle may not bring success at once, and a hard task needs time before it brings its reward. Only with patience — 'Why, with patience, should not you?' — can we keep trying until we prevail.

(viii) How many times should we try and why?

We should try again and again, without counting the times — once or twice, though we should fail, try, try again. We should keep trying because perseverance brings courage, and in the end we conquer; time will bring us our reward.

Task 3. Critical Thinking — What is the main idea of the poem? (Model answer.)

(i) What is the main idea of the poem?

The main idea of the poem is that we should never give up. If at first we do not succeed, we should try, try again. With courage, patience and perseverance we can conquer our fear, win the race, and get our reward in time. Failure is no disgrace if we strive honestly.

Task 4. Give your personal opinions/response about the poem with justification. (Model answer.)

(i) Give your personal opinions/response about the poem with justification.

I like this poem very much because its message is simple and true: try again. In my own life I have seen that students who fail once and give up remain behind, while those who try again pass with good marks. The poem's repeated line 'Try, try again' is easy to remember and gives courage whenever I face a difficult task. Therefore, I agree with the poet that patience and perseverance are the keys to success.

Writing (i). Paraphrase all the stanzas of the poem.

(i) Stanza 1: 'Tis a lesson you should heed, Try, try again; If at first you don't succeed, Try, try again.

Paraphrase: This is a lesson you should listen to and remember: if you do not succeed at first, try again and again.

(ii) Stanza 2: Then your courage should appear, For if you will persevere, You will conquer, never fear, Try, try again.

Paraphrase: Then your courage will come to you, because if you keep on trying with patience, you will win and you need not fear.

(iii) Stanza 3: Once or twice, though you should fail, Try, try again; If you would at last prevail, Try, try again.

Paraphrase: Even if you fail once or twice, keep trying; if you want to win in the end, try again and again.

(iv) Stanza 4: If we strive, 'tis no disgrace Though we do not win the race; What should you do in that case? Try, try again.

Paraphrase: If we make an honest effort, it is not a shame even if we do not win; in that case we should simply try again.

(v) Stanza 5: If you find your task is hard, Try, try again; Time will bring you your reward, Try, try again;

Paraphrase: If you find your work difficult, keep trying; in time you will receive your reward.

(vi) Stanza 6: All that other folk can do, Why, with patience, should not you? Only keep this rule in view, Try, try again.

Paraphrase: Whatever other people can do, you can also do it with patience; only keep this rule in mind — try, try again.

Writing (ii). Write summary of the poem. (Model answer.)

(i) Write summary of the poem.

The poem 'Try Again' by William Edward Hickson teaches us the lesson of perseverance. The poet says that if we do not succeed at first, we should try again. If we persevere, our courage will appear and we will conquer without fear. Even if we fail once or twice, we should keep trying until we prevail. Striving hard is no disgrace even if we do not win the race. A hard task may take time, but time will bring us our reward. Whatever others can do, we can also do with patience. The only rule to keep in view is: try, try again.

Task 8. Write an essay on 'Struggle is key to Success'. (Model answer.)

(i) Write an essay on 'Struggle is key to Success'.

Struggle is the key to success, because nothing great is achieved without effort. The poet of 'Try Again' tells us that if we do not succeed at first, we should try again, and that time will bring us our reward. Every successful person — a student, a sportsman, a scientist — has faced failure, but he did not quit; he struggled with patience and courage until he won. Struggle makes us strong, teaches us from our mistakes, and removes our fear. Those who avoid struggle remain behind, while those who struggle honestly reach their goal. Therefore, we should welcome struggle in life, for it is the only road to success.

Task 9. Work in pairs. Ask and tell directions of your school from your home. (Model dialogue.)

(i) Pair-work dialogue — asking and telling directions of your school from your home.

A: Excuse me, could you tell me the way to the school, please? B: Yes, sure. Go straight on and keep going until you get to the post office. Then turn left and keep going until you get to the main bazaar. Turn right at the bazaar and the school is on your right. A: Do I have to turn right at the bazaar? B: Yes, turn right at the bazaar. A: Oh! Could you tell me the directions once again, please? B: Why not! Now listen carefully. Go straight on and keep going until you get to the post office. Then turn left, go to the main bazaar, turn right, and the school is on your right. A: Thank you very much.

Revision (Units 9-13)

Q1. Answer the following questions.

(i) How were trees used by the earliest man?

Trees were used by the earliest man for travelling: for the earliest man it was very difficult and dangerous to travel on land, so he must have used tree-trunks to travel on the rivers. Then large boats and ships were built of wood, and man was able to move from one part of the world to the other.

(ii) What things are made from wood?

Furniture, boats, doors and window frames are made from wood, and paper is manufactured from wood. Trees provide the raw material for many industries.

(iii) Which country is the largest producer of rubber in the world?

As the lesson states, Malaysia is the largest producer of natural rubber in the world. Rubber is collected from rubber trees, and trees earn a lot of revenue for Malaysia.

(iv) How do trees serve us in other commercial ways?

Trees serve us in many other commercial ways: they produce delicious fruits which we eat and sell to other countries — Pakistan exports apples, mangoes and oranges in large quantities and earns a lot of foreign exchange. Olive trees give edible oil and medicines, and Spain is the largest producer of olive oil in the world. Good timber is sold for good cash.

(v) What things are included in first-aid box?

A first-aid box includes: band-aids (plasters) for small wounds; elastic bandages for sprained joints or a sling for a broken arm; gauze and adhesive tape for larger cuts; antiseptic wipes (alcohol swabs) and cotton wool for cleaning wounds; safety pins and tweezers; scissors; latex gloves; and calamine lotion for sunburns and stings.

(vi) When should we apply an antibiotic on a wound?

We should apply an antibiotic after we clean the wound: after cleaning, apply a thin layer of an antibiotic cream or ointment to help keep the surface moist. The ointment does not make the wound heal faster, but it helps the body's natural healing process work fast.

(vii) Why should we have elastic bandages in our first aid box?

We should have elastic bandages in our first aid box because they are good for wrapping sprained joints or making a sling in the case of a broken arm.

(viii) Why should not we keep on checking to see if the bleeding from wound has stopped?

We should not keep on checking to see if the bleeding has stopped, because this may damage or dislodge the clot that is forming and cause bleeding to resume. Pressure should be held continuously for 20 to 30 seconds.

(ix) How can a book guide us?

A book guides us in different ways: it is a friend and a teacher. Books teach people to live; after reading some books it is easy to understand what should be done and what must not be done. A book also gives us a unique chance to link up with authors who lived in different ages and countries, and through reading we hear their voices, thoughts and feelings.

(x) What is your hobby?

My hobby is reading books, because books bring immense joy, enlarge my knowledge and widen my outlook. (Personal answer — the student's own hobby may differ.)

Q9. Write summary of the poem, 'Try-again'. (Model answer.)

(i) Write summary of the poem, 'Try-again'.

The poem 'Try Again' by William Edward Hickson teaches us never to give up. If we do not succeed at first, we should try again; with perseverance our courage appears and we conquer without fear. Even after failing once or twice we should keep trying until we prevail, because honest striving is no disgrace even if we do not win. A hard task takes time, but time brings its reward, and whatever others can do, we can do with patience. The only rule is: try, try again.

Q10. Critical Thinking — Why are trees considered to be important for clean environment? (Model answer.)

(i) Why are trees considered to be important for clean environment?

Trees are important for a clean environment because they help regulate the atmosphere: they absorb carbon dioxide and give out oxygen. They check the force of winds and rain, bind the soil together, prevent landslides and soil erosion in floods, and preserve animal and bird life. Cutting and burning trees releases ever greater quantities of carbon mono-oxide, which holds in the heat of the sun and causes the dangerous 'green house effect'. That is why people all over the world must make efforts to increase the number of trees, so that a happy and healthy future of the world is ensured.

Q11. Creative writing — Write an essay on planning and raising awareness among the masses about importance of first aid during natural calamities. (Model answer.)

(i) Write an essay on planning and raising awareness among the masses about importance of first aid during natural calamities.

Natural calamities like floods, earthquakes and storms injure thousands of people, and in the first hours after a disaster, doctors and hospitals may not reach the victims. That is why planning and raising awareness about first aid is so important. Every school, office, factory and home should have an accessible first-aid box, and every citizen should be trained in the three Ps: preserve life, prevent further harm and promote recovering. People should learn to stop bleeding with gentle pressure, clean and cover wounds, and deal with burns, fractures and unconscious persons. Through speeches, posters, demonstrations and school training, the masses can learn that a little first-aid knowledge saves lives. If we plan before a calamity and spread this awareness, we can save many lives when disaster strikes.
